the reverse of the picture Mr. Glenn draws is the sort that is most popular. Now, let me take up these objections in their regular order—scents come first. A woman who uses one delicate perfume and no other gradually comes to be associated with that trefume, and it helps to make her attractive and even delightful. "Paint—well, if you lay it on too thick, of course it is not nice, but a little bit of rouge, artistically applied, doesn't do any one any harm, and the idea that it is used by only a certain class of society is absurd. And why shouldn't a woman use tolic waters. They are cooling to the skin and take away any irritation that is apt to develop, particularly in warm weather. And what is more natural and sensible than cooling face powder? Men use just as much powder? Men to artificial teeth—if a woman's

NEW ORLEANS IS A GREAT PLACE FOR RATS

One Nest Alone Contained Forty-fiv oung Ones Which is Greatest Number on Record.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., July 16 New Orleans rats are furnishing the world's most eminent scientists with for the present crusade against rodents

For many years the common house jat has been the subject of deep study, and it is now known that rate tive in colonies or communities, are really large families, the bers of which share a common hers of which share a common nest. According to the highest authorities, the largest number of young rats ever found in one nest was thirty-one. It has remained for New Orleans to break this record, for by Chief O'Connor of the fire department, a total of forty-five young rats were found.

This house is in a square bounded by Camp. Magazine, Julia and St. Joseph street, which the well-known authority on rats, Dr. F. H. Peck, estimates as harboring about 2,000,000 rats, an almost incredible number.

Dr. Peck himself saw the forty-five rats in one nest, and will give the information to every scientist in the formation to every scientist in the world who is making a study of rate now remarded as the most destructive past on the face of the earth, and worthy of consideration by the brain
